

ALLG WEBSITE PRIVACY STATEMENT

The ALLG have created this privacy statement in order to demonstrate our firm commitment to privacy. The following sections disclose the information gathering and dissemination practices that are operating on our website

Collecting Information

When you visit this public area of this website, we will make no record of your visit.

When you visit the restricted access area of this website we may make a record of your visit and log some or all of the following information for statistical or maintenance purposes:

The date and time of your visit

Your user ID and password (this will identify you to us)

If you submitted information using an interactive form, the form that you modified

No information will be used for marketing or purposes outside the functions of the ALLG. When a pharmaceutical company requests a list of attendees at a meeting, they are provided with a list of names and institutional affiliations. No contact information is included.

Email Addresses

Most members of the ALLG have provided their email addresses on their membership applications and renewal forms to be used in carrying out the functions of the ALLG. Data managers have provided contact details to the Trial Centre also for the purpose of carrying out their trial responsibilities. We will not use your e-mail address for any other purpose, and will not disclose it without your consent.

The restricted access area of the website provides a list of ALLG members and data managers and their email addresses. If you do not wish this to be available you may choose to opt out of this list by notifying the ALLG in writing. The restricted access area for individual trials also provides contact information for people responsible for specific aspects of trials. This is considered to be a necessary component of the respective roles and opting out is not an option.
